CAMS

CERTIFIED ANTI-MONEY
LAUNDERING SPECIALIST

AML Compliance | Financial Investigation | Risk Assessment

COURSE SUMMARY

The Certified Anti-Money Laundering Specialist (CAMS) credential, awarded by the Association of Certified Anti-Money Laundering Specialists (ACAMS), is the globally recognised benchmark certification for professionals working in anti-money laundering (AML), financial crime prevention, and regulatory compliance.

The programme provides a comprehensive understanding of AML frameworks, compliance obligations, investigative techniques, and the risk-based approach to managing financial crime. As regulatory expectations continue to evolve, CAMS-certified professionals play a critical role in helping organisations identify risks, strengthen compliance programmes, and protect themselves against financial crime, fraud, and reputational damage.

ETI's CAMS Exam Preparation Programme combines structured learning, practical case studies, and expert guidance to help participants build strong AML knowledge and prepare confidently for the global CAMS certification examination.

ENTRY QUALIFICATIONS

To earn the CAMS (CERTIFIED ANTI-MONEY LAUNDERING SPECIALIST) credential, candidates must:

- No formal degree is required; however, a background in finance, accounting, business, law, compliance, or related fields is advantageous.
- Candidates must meet the minimum 40 qualifying credits through a combination of education, professional experience, or training to be eligible for the CAMS examination, as prescribed by ACAMS.

Why Choose CAMS?

- Globally recognised CAMS certification awarded by ACAMS, strengthening your credibility in anti-money laundering and financial crime prevention.
- Gain specialised knowledge aligned with international AML standards, regulatory expectations, and industry best practices.
- Build expertise in risk assessment, suspicious activity reporting, investigations, compliance frameworks, and financial crime controls.
- Learn from experienced industry professionals and CAMS-certified trainers with practical AML and compliance expertise.
